There is far too much violent programming accessible to children.
All this televised violence should carry, at a minimum, the same restrictions as sexual content. Television, I feel, is an excellent tool for entertaining and educating everyone. What does violence teach?